

RETAIL ORDER GUIDE - 2025 MODEL YEAR 1967 SHELBY GT500 2+2 FASTBACK

The 1967 Shelby GT500 is an iconic performance car, and not just among Mustang enthusiasts. The last Shelby model to be built at the Shelby American workshop in Venice, California, the GT500 is today highly sought after by collectors. Its iconic front fascia with inboard driving lights, upper and lower side scoops, and "ducktail" rear spoiler and wide tail lamps give it a distinctive, muscular appearance. Powered by the the largest and most powerful V8 engine ever fitted to a Mustang up to that time, the GT500 delivered outstanding acceleration. The combination of aggressive good looks and high performance immediately established the GT500 as an automotive legend. The Revology Shelby GT500 captures the style and character of the original with improved performance, drivability, reliability, comfort, and safety.

The 1967 Shelby GT500 Super Snake was a prototype vehicle developed by Shelby American for Goodyear to promote its new Thunderbolt tire. The Super Snake featured a 600hp Ford 427 SOHC racing engine, similar to the one that powered the LeMans-winning GT40s to victory that year. Shelby considered building a limited run of 50 Super Snakes, but the high cost of the racing engine made the project infeasible. The sole example passed through various hands until it was sold at auction in 2019 for $2.2 million; at the time, the highest price ever paid for a Mustang. The Revology Super Snake features a unique front grille with outboard driving lights and polished laser cut stainless steel surrounds, a louvered fiberglass hood, Super Snake badging, and the iconic three center stripe layout.
